HCMP Update: HB 4204 - Oregon Forbearance Moratorium

Print version | Web version

In response to the effects that the COVID-19 pandemic has had on the economy, Governor Kate Brown signed House Bill 4204 ("HB 4204") into law on June 30, 2020. HB 4204 protects borrowers who fail to make payments due to economic hardship resulting from COVID-19 so long as the borrower provides to lender the notice required in the statute of their inability to make such payments. The law is broad in scope and applies to both residential as well as commercial loans secured by real property located in Oregon or personal property that is used as a residence in Oregon. One of the most significant provisions of the law is that it requires lenders to notify their borrowers by mail, no later than August 29, 2020, of their borrowers' rights for accommodations under HB 4204. Summary - Electronic Records Notary Public - Remotely Located Individuals

Print version | Web version

Governor Inslee issued an order that will temporarily allow electronic notarization for remotely located individuals starting Friday, March 27, 2020. This will allow individuals who require notary services to maintain the social distancing required to combat COVID-19.

This remote notarization service can only be provided by an electronic records notary public with a remote notarization endorsement ("ERNP") and not all notaries public have such additional endorsements. An ERNP must be registered and approved by the Washington State Department of Licensing ("Department" or "DOL") before providing remote notarization services. Click the links above to learn more.

Effects of the COVID-19 Emergency on Leases in Washington

Print version | Web version

The current global pandemic of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) is affecting many aspects of daily life and business. Circumstances and guidance surrounding the spread of the disease change day by day, and governments are rapidly instituting emergency protocols, orders, and restrictions across industries in an attempt to support their citizens and economies.

As part of their emergency measures, jurisdictions throughout the state of Washington are instituting moratoriums on tenant evictions. This memorandum summarizes the current state of these moratoriums and analyzes their impact on landlords. Click the links above to learn more.

Landlord-Tenant Solutions During the COVID-19 Outbreak

Print version | Web version

Over the past several weeks COVID-19 has transformed our communities, forcing necessary limitations on in-person interactions and threatening the financial wellbeing of families and businesses alike. On March 24, the State of Washington enacted a Stay Home, Stay Healthy Order, shutting down all business other than those deemed essential.

It is crucial that landlords and tenants communicate and collaborate to determine what modifications are needed to their leases to forgive certain obligations of tenants that cannot be fulfilled during the government-mandated closures. Click the links above to learn more.

Impact of COVID-19 on Restaurants and Bars

Print version | Web version

The coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic has impacted the ability of businesses around the world to maintain operations and fulfill existing contractual obligations. In just a matter of days, the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a pandemic, governments imposed unprecedented travel and large-gathering restrictions, cities and states prohibited dine-in service at restaurants and bars, and companies from all sectors experienced severe business interruptions or canceled events due to a combination of government regulations on large gatherings and pandemic concerns. The fast-paced evolution of the COVID-19 pandemic gives rise to new events every day that affect a business' ability to perform its contractual obligations. Click the links above to learn more.

Kurt Kruckeberg Article, "Unforeseen Circumstances and Citrus Soap: A Tale of a Force-Majeure Clause in the Time of the Spanish Flu"

Print version | Web version

Since the onset of the pandemic, I've heard clients and colleagues talk about dusting off force majeure clauses. Force majeure clauses are the clauses that give a contracting party an "out" due to unforeseen circumstances beyond the parties' control. Out of curiosity, I searched whether there were any reported cases interpreting force majeure clauses in the nearest historic analogue to our current crisis: the Spanish flu of 1918.

I found one Spanish-flu-force-majeure case. Oddly enough, the case was about something we've all been talking about: soap. Click the links above to learn more.
