

Business & Commercial

Commercial litigation is central to HCMP's trial practice. We represent clients of all shapes and sizes – from individuals and small local businesses to large multinational corporations – in a wide range of business and commercial disputes. Our experience includes contract, employment, real estate, trademark, trade secret, unfair business practices, and shareholder actions.

We defended Weyerhaeuser in a four-month federal jury trial in Alaska, where plaintiff sought damages of $50 million for alleged destruction of businesses, based on claims of fraud, misrepresentation and breach of contract. We represented Horizon Air in an arbitration pursuant to the rules of the International Chamber of Commerce, seeking return of millions of dollars of deposits, in a case arising out of Horizon's termination of an aircraft purchase agreement.
